The Legend of

ZELDA

HOT NINTENDO ACTION!

Link, you have been chosen to save the world. You must defeat the evil forces of Ganon and rescue Princess Zelda.

Dear Nintendo Dadz,

I am just writing to say how much I love your comics. I have been collecting them since issue #1. But I have some comments to make.

Number 1: Zelda. This is a very interesting comic book. But you need to add more of the enemies in the palace.

Number 2: Super Mario Bros. I love this one very much. But I'd like fewer more of the Koopa Kids. Please. And show more of Stanley.

Number 3: Game Boy. Interesting, but needs more action. Why does Tatlana think he is? That's small, pesky flea. I must go with Fritz on this one. Koopa does need to flatten him into a small, greasy spot.

Number 4: Captain N, the Game Master. My favorite of all.

Number 5: Punch-Out!. One of the most boring. Personally, I don't like it.

And for a closing statement, one more thing: these are the coolest comics ever made!

Matthew Levi

Glad to get those comments, Matthew. Sorry we can't be perfect every time, but sometimes, you know, being a in the eye of the beholder! And on...

Dear Yopage! Communicationzine,, I really like your Punch-Out! stories. And your Game Boy comics are cool, with Mario and Tatlana coming out of the Game Boy. The Super Mario Bros. and King Koopa have adventures that are cool, too! By the way, are you going to make any new Punch-Out! stories? And, I would love to try The Legend of Zelda soon.

Brian Stein
Ann Arbor, MI

Surprise, Brian! We've printed a special two-part Zelda story in this very issue — and we did it especially for you! (Sort of.)

In any case, through you and Matthew's insight on your favorite stories, we hope you both can appreciate why we print the Nintendo Comics System™ in their readers a wide variety of stories. If that means we get a wide variety of comments and opinions, too, that's just fine. We like to get 'em.

Dear VALIANT,

I like your comic books a lot. Link makes it look so easy. How does he do it? The Nintendo game is very hard.

Michael Celerin
Boulder City, LA

Yes, Link does make it look easy. That's because he's a hero, and heroes have a way of making anything look easy. It does take a lot of practice, however. We'll let if you practice, playing your Nintendo game well, get easier, too.

Dear VALIANT,

If one again! Yay, I'm back, with the best idea yet. Notice how people are sending letters about how they're heroes? Well, how about if you send those people here application forms? Then, when they've filled them out, they send them back and you send them here, too, please!

Well, that's it for now, so... so long!

Always glad to hear from you, James. You're right, there are a lot of heroes out there, and we're glad to hear from all of them. What worries us is all that paperwork... yikes! Maybe we should just leave known to letter writers, instead, huh?!

Dear Mario,

I really like you guys! And I play Nintendo everyday! But I also like Tetris. My favorite bad guy is Ludwig Von Koopa. But my favorite good guy is you!

Tammy Baxter
Greenville, PA

Good choice, Tammy! At least, when it comes to good guys.

Dear Princess Toadstool,

Every time I play Super Mario 2, I use you. I like the way you glide through the air.

Why did you eat Mario's bowling ball in Super Mario Bros. #2?

Brandon Hunter
Mankato, WA

Maybe because it tasted good? By the way, as a fan of the Princess, you may want to check out this month's issue of Adventures of the Super Mario Bros. #2, that is! You'll discover that Princess Toadstool finally has her own section — an advice column!

Dear Mario, Luigi, Princess, Toad, and King Koopa (even if you are the enemy),

I love your comic! They are really far out. I hope you can make a comic in which King Koopa dies, and Larry or some other Koopa takes over.

You could even show some parts of Super Mario 2 before the game comes out. It would be INTERESTING.

P.S. I hope you don't turn into Duck

Duck-Head again. You might get into big trouble with King Koopa.

See, but isn't TRICKLE what makes Mario's adventures so INTERESTING to begin with?

Dear VALIANT,

I think Super Mario Bros. comics are great! I liked your story, "Flora and Bones" in issue #5. I agree with Wendy Koopa that Stanley the Talking Fish is an idiot.

What does the "O" in Wendy O. Koopa's name stand for? Wendy is my love Koopa Kid. I hope you like my picture of Wendy enclosed with this letter.

Jenny Davidson
Vancouver, MS

P.S. My sister sent a picture of Wendy, too.

Yes, we do like your post! And about Wendy's middle name... who knows? It could be Catherine, Catherine, Oppenheimer, Oscar, Charles, Joseph, Duane, Oskadot, or even just plain Cheryl. Since Wendy has never told us, your guess is as good as Ours!
